Pre-College Film Intensives

Each film intensive coalesces a group of young filmmakers into a production company that makes a movie. From screenwriting, to storyboard, to shooting and post-production, student interest and talent drives the creativity of the group in this fast-paced and fun learning experience.

In a hands-on style, students learn a range of film-related skills such as acting, directing, producing, screenwriting, editing, sound, lighting, costume, and set design. As well, they explore cultural, historical and practical facets of the film world. Students invite families to a screening at the end of each intensive session.
To experience the intense immersion of film production, students are involved in three courses per day: mornings are for preparatory activities, early afternoons are full of production and late afternoons are slated for reflection and post-production. Particular courses for each intensive are listed below. For more in-depth descriptions of each FILM INTENSIVE class, please visit www.pace.edu/summerarts.
