PACE UNIVERSITY-SCHOOL OF EDUCATION—PLEASANTVILLE

Faculty Position: Biology Education

Pace University, a private comprehensive university with campuses in Westchester County and New York City invites applications for a tenure-track position in Biology Education for the Fall semester of 2005.

The successful candidate will teach biology courses in the Department of Biological Sciences of the Dyson College of Arts and Sciences and also teach Science Education and other pedagogical courses in the School of Education.

The position requires:
• An earned doctorate in either Biology or Science Education [a Ph.D./or Ed.D in one and an MS/ MSEd in the other].
• Experience and expertise teaching science in P-12 school settings (preferably urban, preferably multiple sciences, mathematics and/or technology) and evidence of teaching excellence.
• A demonstrated record of, or potential for, scholarship and a demonstrated interest in research.
• Ability to negotiate multiple contexts.

We seek individuals who are reflective, who integrate theory and practice and who seek a strong community of teacher/scholars.

Pace University is an Equal Employment and Affirmative Action Employer, committed to ensuring a diverse learning and working environment. Consistent with our commitment to a diverse faculty and staff to serve our diverse student population, candidates of color and individuals from other traditionally under-represented groups are strongly encouraged to apply. For more information about Pace University, please visit our website at http://www.pace.edu.

Interested candidates should send a cover letter, resume, and letters from three references to:
Ms. Annjanet Woodburn, Assistant Dean
School of Education
Pace University
861 Bedford Road
Pleasantville, NY 10570