Welcome!

The Faculty and Staff of the Lienhard School of Nursing would like to take this opportunity to welcome you to Pace University. We have designed this orientation to meet as a community to familiarize you with the school, the policies, the programs, the faculty and staff, and, most importantly, with your peers. We are proud of our school and the fine reputation that we hold. We expect to see all of you at the orientation and welcome you to Pace.

Philosophy of the Lienhard School of Nursing (LSN)

We believe nursing, informed by its rich legacy, is a dynamic caring art and science that, through intention, facilitates health, healing, and comfort for individuals, families, and communities. We prepare nurses who provide holistic, relationship-centered care within a framework of primary health care. As life-long learners, nurses: participate in the teaching-learning process; develop a strong sense of self-awareness, a spirit of inquiry, and reflective thinking; demonstrate cultural sensitivity; and communicate their ideas effectively.

The LSN undergraduate curriculum is process oriented, providing a broad foundational base for entry into professional nursing practice. In the graduate program the master’s curriculum provides the depth and breadth of knowledge and skills necessary to prepare the advanced practice nurse.
