Goldstein Athletic Center Construction Moving Right Along

Pace University's Goldstein Health, Fitness and Recreation Center is just months away from being ready for use. Favorable weather over the past 12 months has made it possible for construction crews to move along at a steady pace on the 75,000-square foot facility located on the Pleasantville campus.

Groundbreaking took place on March 29, 2001, and the process has moved along smoothly since the historical day. The estimated $17 million dollar facility will house a 2,400-seat arena, where the men's and women's basketball and volleyball teams will play home contests, a large fitness center, aerobics center, jogging track, eight-lane natatorium and diving platforms, locker rooms, training facility, concessions stand, athletic offices and offices of the university's health care unit.
